

This one month training program focuses on biomechanics, strength & endurance and is geared to all levels of runners. The coach for this program is Gilbert Tuhabonye an Olympian and NCAA All-American, who believes that by transforming an athlete's biomechanics, running becomes a joy and the likelihood of injury is significantly limited. Gilbert brings his running and life experience to the training in an educational & inspiring format that stresses his love and commitment to the sport. Sessions take place each Tuesday and Thursday. Currently, only the evening time slot of 5.30-6.30pm is available (unless given special permission to attend morning class at 5:45am). Each Saturday the group meets for a long run with a bonus stretching session afterwards.
